New Story talking points and why they matter

We must outgrow the low image of the human being and the ruling idea of a meaningless, material world that is the dominant paradigm of industrial societies. If we become aware of the vision emerging from both new science and the wisdom traditions and share it wherever we can it will greatly facilitate the creation of a new culture:

- all life is an interconnected whole; if I injure you (or any living thing), I injure myself
- we are body, mind, and spirit
- as spirit, we can realize our connectedness
- we can never be fulfilled by consumption or competition; we need deep relationships of service to people and planet
- we have inner capacities, largely untapped, that make nonviolence possible, indeed inevitable

When astronauts saw the earth from space it changed everything. Seeing the innate unity of our "movement of movements" (over) can do the same.
